FIERCE SPECULATIVE GALE

BEAR RAID FOLLOWED BY FRANTIC RALLY.

Notable Quieting Down Toward the Close, and Prices Show Only Small Net Changes.

New York, March 28.—The stock market was swept by a speculative gale during the two hours' seesion to-day, of which the quiet closing and the smail net changes in prices give little indication. The bear party made a flerce onsituoght on prices after an unsteady opening, and succeeded in disloding some heavy blocks of stocks, which were in a vulnerable position, by reason of calls for additional margins and by stoploss orders placed below the market. The unexpected increase in reserves disclosed by the hank statement caused anxiety on the part of the bears, and they bought to cover in an urgent manner, causing a violent rally insprices. There was a notable quieting down after the principal demand from the bears had been satisfied, and the market wavered again, but closed about steady, although below the top prices on the rally. There was as little specific news to explain the scelling as there was yesterday, and it seemed to be based upon discouragement over the general apathy of the speculation and the many disappointments of hopes of a rise in prices.

There was some show of support in New York Central and Pennylvania, and the hopes of a rise in prices.

SHOW OF SUPPORT.

There was some show of support in New York Central and Pennsylvania, and the greatest weakness shifted to the Pacifics and St. Paul. Manhattan was supported and there was some strength among the coalers, based upon the favorable reports of net earnings for February of Reading and Lehigh Valley, following that for Erie, which was published yesterday. The only explanation offered for the higher reserves shown by the banks in face of an apparent decrease, judged by the known movements of money, was the working of the average system of computation. A daily increase in cash serves to increase the effect upon the weekly average. The passing of the April 1 period is looked to for some relief from the demand for money, and the liquidation effected in stocks yesterday and to-day is also expected to clear the situation to some extent.

OUTLOOK CLOUDED.

OUTLOOK CLOUDED.

The speculative outlook has been clouded this week by the money situation, present and prospective, and the result has been a neglected and sluggish stock market, followed by urgent liquidation. In a few special stocks there have been active speculative movements based on individual causes. The violent break in the copper market in London has had an unsettling effect on the recent extensive speculation in copier stocks all over the world, and was reflected in a sharp reaction in Amalgamated Copper on the Stock Exchange, with a sympaticite effect on the whole list. The decline in that stock found a large long account in a vulnerable position, and some heavy speculative liquidation was the consequence. Some support was forthcoming when the copper market in London recovered. The reception accorded the new Pennsylvania stock issue was not encouraging to those who have hoped for a stimulating effect on speculation from the declaration of subscription rights. With the market prices of the stock at about 140 the right to subscribe to new stock at 129 to the extent of one-third of present holdings offers a substantial OUTLOOK CLOUDED. tock at about 140 the right to subscribe to ew stock at 125 to the extent of one-third f present holdings offers a substantial enefit to stockholders. But the prospect of increase in market supply of the stock y one-third and the formidable money re-ulterment involved in the subscription to he new stock has resulted in active reali-cation in Pennsylvania. The subscriptions to the new stock will require the use of ome $55.00.000, of which half will be pay-ble in June, one-quarter in October and he remaining quarter in June of next ear. The effect on the stock market of this

The effect on the stock market of this proposition is very significant of the feeling of anxiety over the very large offerings of new capital issues in the market. There seems to have been some buying of subscription rights to the new stock against the sales of the old stock on the exchange, but the fact remains that efforts were urgent to find a quick market for the large supply of new stock impending, or to find resources for taking it up by liquidation of present holdings. Other stocks which have been held at a high level in the expectation of benefits to accrue by new stock subscription rights have been an influence in the background of the speculative situation and every new demand for increase of wages intensifies the fear that the resulting increase in operating expenses will affect the rate of profits to shareholders.

RAHLROAD EARNINGS.

The reports of net earnings of railroads for February do not show sufficient increases as a result of higher freight rates to relieve this apprehension. With these returns in hand little effect is produced by the large increase in gross earnings reported by the railroads, by the reports of unprecedented volume of traffic and concestion of freight from various quarters. Various projects for outlay for terminal improvements and additional equipment fuvolving further absorption of capital are the secuence of this condition.

Various projects for outlay for terminal improvements and additional equipment involving further absorption of capital are the sequence of this condition.

Attention is attracted by complaints of the practical breakdown of motive power on some railroads as being responsible in part for the blockade of freight. Euch a condition gives rise to the fear that some of the striking economies of operation which have been effected of late years by railroads have been effected of late years by railroads have been at the expense of too heavy a strain upon motive power to enable its efficiency to be preperly maintained. The dra'n upon New York bank reserves has continued during the week. The subtreasury has continued to absorb large amounts and half a million was shipped to Buenos Ayrez. The London market has been disturbed, like our own, by the stringency of money and the requirement in prospect for the $150,000.00 Transvanl loan. The decision of the Secretary of the Treasury to refund $100,000.00 of short-term Government 2 and 4 per cent bonds into consols 2 per cent caused a momentary recovery of a point in a few prominent stocks in the market, but the pressure to sell at the advance was greater than ever. The basis for additional note circulation provided by the new supply of 2 per cents seems not to be taken account of by the financial world, as the additional circulation is not available for banking reserve and provides no basis for expansion of credits.

BOND REFUNDING.

banking reserve and provides no basis for expansion of credits.

BOND REFUNDING.

The cash payment of the premium on the refunded bonds would indeed increase the cash supply, but the amount is so moderate and its disbursement likely to be so slow as to appeal little to the present discouraged sentiment in Wall street over money affairs. The contest between the Harriman & Keen holdings in Southern Pacific has been in abeyance during the week, but the working out of the struggle is still to be met and the prospect serves to help the repression of operations in the market. The decision of the Government's suit against the Northern Securities Company by a United States Judge is another event overhamping the market, although an appeal to the Supreme Court is taken for granted. The undeviating reports of prosperous trade conditions seem to be entirely without influence upon sentiment. The opening of the navigation on the lakes is looked forward to hopefully to help unlock the accumulation of grain at interior centers, and start it abroad, with a resulting release of funds tied up in holding charges and a replenishment of the supply of foreign exchange.

The market for bonds has been duit and the movement of prices irregular. The United States old 4s advanced 1½ per cent and the new 4s ½ per cent. The 2s refunding registered declined 1 and the 2s 1 per cent, as compared with the closing call of last week. BOND REFUNDING.

movement in the local grain market yesterday. At the start there was excellent sup-for the May option and values continued on the upturn during the first hour. There several bullish conditions in the early news, but these were ignored by some of the prominent local professionals, who were anxious to get the market down to an expo basis. Foreign markets were strong, in line with Friday's domestic advance. Receibere and at Northwestern points were moderate, and, though crop reports were generated and though crop reports were generated and though crop reports were generated as the contract of the c favorable, cold weather was feared in portions of the wheat beit. Chicago. March 28.—Business on the Board of Trade was quiet to-day, and closing prices were easier, May wheat being off ac. May corn down '4674a and oats '3674c' lower to be higher.

There was a small trade in wheat with operations confined largely to local interests and a nervous sentiment prevaded the pit. The opening was firm on good call buying, influenced by the higher cables and the big export clearances of yesterday. May being unchanged to a shade higher at 7356973/ac to 725c. The favorable weather was a nearly bear factor, and there was considerable selling on that account, which already and the big selling on that account, which already and to 1725c. The favorable weather was an early bear in the favorable weather was an early bear factor, and there was a period of duliness, during which all classes of traders were out. Then the big longs unloaded 500,000 bu, and all of the close on May was near the botton at 7256723c. Offerings became more farmed and four were equal to 100,000 bu. Primary receipts were 285,300 bu, compared with 67,100 bu, a year ago, which, with local receipts for their three points 199 cars, against 197 cars have been selling by cars, and there was the potton for the movement caused a little uneather selling by provision interests and commission houses. CORN.

Corn ruled extremely dull throughout the session and the sentiment favored the bears. Favorable weather for the movement caused a little uneashess at the start and there was considerable selling by provision interests and commission houses. The early firmness in wheat was a supporting feature and held prices fairly well, but late in the day the market became weaker and the close at about the bottom prices, May being 1600 lower, at 455,6425,c after ranging between 425c and 435,6425.c. The local receipts were 157 cars, with none of contract grade.

OATS.

There was a fair trade in oats and the market exhibited a moderate amount of strength at times under active covering of the May delivery. The sentiment was bullish on the crop situation, but the break in wheat had a depressing influence and caused liberal selling late in the day. The close was easier, with May off 15,050, at 275,073c. Tarding in provisions lacked any marked feature and quietness prevailed the entire

PROVISIONS.

Trading in provisions lacked any marked feature and quietness prevailed the entire day. In spite of emailer receipts of hogs and higher prices at the yards the market was barely steady, although a fair demand for pork caused that product to rule firm, the closing price being 5c higher, at $18.05. May lard was unchanged at $10.07\frac{1}{2}$ and ribs down 2\frac{1}{2}$c at $9.85.

Estimated receipts for Monday: Wheat, 29 cars; corn, 120 cars; oats, 200 cars; hegs, 23, 600 head.

STATEMENT OF BANK AVERAGES. Surplus Reserve Shows an Increase of $3,100,500 for the Week.

New York, March 28.—The statement of averages of the clearing-house banks of this city for the week shows:
Loans, $304.509.200; decrease, $6.948.500.
Deposits, $384.200.000; decrease, $6.122.400.
Circulation, $42.906.800; increase, $57.800.
Legal tenders, $66.384.400; increase, $1.605.

Specie, $163,461.590; decrease, $131,000. Reserve, $229,845,900; increase, $1.494,000. Reserve required, $223,565,000; decrease, as any Surplus, $6,280,900; increase, $3,109,500.

Ex. United States deposit, $16,228,400; increase, $3,009,909.

The Financier says:

The official statement of the New York Associated Banks show a notable gain in surplus reserves. This more favorable exhibit, however, resulted chiefly from the reduction in reserve requirements against deposits, caused by a further contraction in loans, though cash unexpectedly increased by a moderate amount.

There was a reduction last week of $5,948,300 in loans, making $15,90,500 since February 21, when, as previously noted, this item was at the maximum record. The specie decreased $131,000, but the legal tenders were increased $1,325,900, making the net gain in cash $1,494,200, instead of a loss of $1,929,900, as estimated, from the traceable movements of money during the week. Deposits were decreased $4,422,400, making a reduction since February 21 of $88,560,900. The reserve requirements caused by the decreased deposits has week were lessened by $1,605,600, which sum added to the net gain in cash, as above, made an increase in the surplus reserve of $1,105,500. This item, computed on the basis of all deposits, less $40,120,000, of public funds, the surplus is $15,23,900. Calculated on the basis of deposits, less $40,120,000, of public funds, the surplus is $15,23,800.

The statement appeared to have been made on rising averages for cash and therefore the banks were probably in a better condition as regards reserve than was shown by the return. This week the $1,000,000 appropriation by Congress for the relief of the Philippines will be placed to the credit of the Philippines will be placed to the credit of the Philippines will be placed to the loans in which the money will be deposited.

One notable feature of the statement to which we have previously called attention.

with its financial agents in this this will help to increase the cash reserves of the banks in which the money will be deposited.

One notable feature of the statement to which we have previously called attention is that the banks, as a whole, show an excess this week of $19,333,200 loans over deposits, against $19,855,000 in the week ending March 21. The detailed statement shows that eight of the banks having the largest capital and surplus have a total of about $80,000,000 of loans in excess of deposits, while five banks, equally strong as regards capital and surplus, have about $25,000,000 in deposits in excess of loans.

It is, of course, difficult to say whether the above noted banks showing an excess of loans over deposits are loaning out of their circulation, which amounts to $25,000,000; their capital of $33,000,000 or their surplus of $75,000,000, as well as out of their deposits, all of which items are embraced in the general terms of loans if the banks do loan out of these and they have an excess of loans over deposits, there is reason why disclosure of this fact should cause comment. That these banks do loan out of one or all these items appears to be evident. All of the institutions usually maintain the proportion of cash reserve to deposits required by the national banking law, and if they shall occasionally fall below this percentage the fact may be regarded as not of the least importance, and, indeed, during periods such as the present and at other times when reserves are necessarily low, it is likely that a slight deficiency will not call for admonition by the banking department. So far as clearing-house requirements are concerned, there is no rule of that body demanding that 25 per cent of the reserve be maintained by all banks, though by the unwritten law of the clearing-house such proportion of reserve is regarded as desirable.
